The research effort was divided into three major program areas: 1) monitoring of water quality and contaminant levels in biota to identify contaminants of concern and assess field-level exposure, 2) toxicological assessment of drainwater contaminants using fish and invertebrates in a battery of laboratory and on-site tests, and 3) field and laboratory bioaccumulation studies to evaluate the role of the food chain in the transport, chemical speciation, and biological cycling of contaminants. The results of these studies provide critical information regarding the hazard of irrigation drainage to aquatic life in California and other western states, as well as the validity of current and proposed water quality criteria for specific irrigation drainwater contaminants. Water Quality Monitoring and Contaminants in Biota Field surveys of water quality and contaminant levels were...

Reviews

An incredibly amazing ebook with perfect and lucid answers. It is written in basic terms and never difficult to understand. It has been written in an exceptionally basic way and it is only right after I finished reading this ebook in which it in fact modified me, affected the way I really believe.
