Abusing Donor Intent: The Robertson Family's Epic Lawsuit Against Princeton University

By Doug White

Paragon House Publishers. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 328 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 5.9in. x 0.8in. It was the largest one-time amount anyone had ever donated to benefit a university. The Robertsons were specific about the way the money was to be used. It was intended to help Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs focus on sending its graduates into those areas of the federal government concerned with international relations. But the university, the son says, was ignoring my parents' intentions. Furthermore, Princeton's administrators were harming the country. That's not, as you might imagine, the way Princeton saw it or sees it today. How much control over a gift does a donor have after the gift is given? How accountable is a non-profit recipient for the use of the gift? Robertson v. Princeton may be the most important case higher education has faced over the question of honoring the wishes of the donor. Wall Street Journal Doug White's careful and fair study of the seminal Robertson Foundation endowment litigation against Princeton University should be read by all donors and donees. As a former head of the New York State Law Department's Charities Bureau, I know donors have to have both courage...

Reviews

An incredibly amazing ebook with perfect and lucid answers. It is written in basic terms and never difficult to understand. It's been written in an exceptionally basic way and it is only right after I finished reading this ebook in which in fact modified me, affect the way I really believe.

-- Beverly Hoppe

Extremely helpful for all classes of individuals. Better than ever, though I am quite late in starting reading this one. I realized this publication from my I and dad suggested this ebook to discover.
